

RAY

Ooh wee look at that Audrey. She is a work of art huh?

CHARLES

Oh, yeah.

RAY

Your a lucky man Charlie.

CHARLES

Oh don't I know it.

RAY

How long you two been married?

CHARLES

Oh what is it now...a year ago September I guess. We're still newlyweds really.

RAY

That's wonderful. It really is. Where are you living these days?

CHARLES

We got a really great place out on Long Island.

RAY

Yeah where?

CHARLES

Stoneybrook. Yeah, I'm fixing a room up for the kids.

RAY

You got kids?

CHARLES

Well, we intend to have them.

RAY

Yeah? That's great. Audrey was a little wild in high school.

CHARLES

Oh yeah I can believe it.

RAY

I always knew she would get herself together some day.

CHARLES

Oh, well, thank you Ray.

RAY

I know I shouldn't be asking you this...

CHARLES

Oh no no no.

RAY

Audrey was always the hottest thing in school. And I was wondering, what is she really like?

CHARLES

Ahh what a girl. I mean what a girl. She is impulsive and she has an imagination that...

RAY

No no no I mean in bed.

CHARLES

Oh (He starts laughing out of embarrassment). What am I doing? Oh God. Oh well she's uh....

RAY

Come on Charlie. You got to admit she looks like she can fuck you right in half. I mean just fuck you to pieces.

CHARLES

(Very offended) Ray there's no call for that kind of talk.

RAY

Your right. Your right. I'm sorry. Sorry Charlie. Sorry Charlie (He starts to laugh) come on, friends?

CHARLES

Sure.

RAY

Okay. I'm gonna get me some smokes,
I'll be right back. Your a good guy
Charlie. I don't care what they say.
