

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM

Joy enters the conference room and sits across from Neil.

NEIL

I'm in a meeting with our lawyers.
What do you think you're doing?

JOY

Go home, Joy. And watch the numbers roll in on television. Make fifty thousand mops, borrowing and owing every dollar including your home.

NEIL

It could've been handled better.
I'll let Todd have another shot
at...

JOY

I don't want Todd or anyone else to try it. It should be me.

NEIL

We don't have regular people. We have celebrities and spokesmodels to the selling. I told you this.

JOY

Who showed you the mop? Who sold it to you? Who taught you how to use it? And who convinced you that it was great after you thought it was worthless?

NEIL

(to the board)

Excuse me can you give us a second?

They leave.

JOY

You said to me that David Selznick,
the son of immigrants, married Jennifer an all-American girl from Oklahoma. I guess in America all races and all classes can meet and make whatever opportunities they can and that is what you feel when you reach into people's homes before you sell. You said that.
