EMILY (ON PHONE WITH BOB)

BOB

I miss you. I'll be home on Monday.

EMILY

So, how's it going? Does it feel like a success?

BOB

I don't know, I just got here. How was the barbecue?

EMILY

Anybody who ate the ribs got sick.

BOB

You're kidding?

EMILY

They were under-cooked. Or they were left out in the sun.

BOB

I thought that only happens with fish.

EMILY

No. Ribs too. I've been trying to get out of bed. My stomach is killing me.

BOB

You're not pregnant, are you?

EMILY

No, honey. When you're pregnant you throw up in the third month, you don't throw up the night after conception. Well actually, that's not necessarily true, but I didn't marry that guy.

BOB

How did Laura do on the test?

EMILY

The teacher said, okay.

BOB

Okay's not good.

EMILY

I didn't want to tell you this till you came home, but they're a little worried she might have ADD.

B/B CASTING

EMILY (CONT'D)

She's definitely smart, and when she learns something she remembers it, but they say she has trouble taking instructions, and that sometimes her mind is all over the place. The teacher said she'd like to see her concentrate more.

BOB

Honey, she's ten. No ten year old concentrates.

EMILY

Apparently the medicated ones do.
